

Privacy Policy

We collect customer information such as name, phone number, email, address, service details, quote approvals, payment information, and communication history to provide estimates, schedule services, send automated updates, process invoices, and manage customer accounts. We use Jobber, including Jobber Payments, Client Hub, automated texts, quote approvals, and website request forms, to help operate our business. We do not sell personal information. We may share information only with service providers needed to run our business, such as payment processors, communication providers, and software platforms. Contact us with any privacy questions.
